About Conference

Aurangabad as a specific region As the Deccan deserves a Special attention both geographically & historically. Social & cultural setup of Aurangabad and marathwada region is also different. Since the ancient times of Harrapan civilization, Narmada, Godavari & Krishna River cultures of northern and southern regions of Indian sub-continent, harnessed regional cultures and also through their trade routes consistently allowed people of north, south to exchange, commerce & culture, The south-deccan connects to north remains in cultural and commercial paths. If Ganga flows in northern Indian plains then Dakshin Ganga or Godawari flows in Deccan & south with these historical, political and geographical interlinks, north & south always exchanged their cultural, social & religious path ways & practices. With these historical backgrounds, the proposed conference intends to explore the socio-cultural & historical connections through political & cultural facts in the Deccan through the Ages.

Sub Themes

- Archeological and cultural trends in Deccan.
- Cultural connection between North-South and Deccan.
- Bahamani sultans-mughal-Maratha relations: 1500-1857
- Socio-Cultural connect between North & Deccan from 2nd to 18th century
