ABOUT CONFERENCE

The Goods And Services Tax, is the most sweeping tax reform since independence. The GST replaced seventeen central and state levies and has brought the country under a common market, simplifying the tax structure and ensuring greater compliance.

The impact of GST is not merely on profits and revenue but on all cross sections of the society and economy as a whole.

Though the government promises that the transition to a single nationwide tax on goods and services will streamline business and most of the economy by tearing down barriers between 31 states and union territories but there are apprehensions as to how it will work.

So the institute has taken this opportunity to put issue of GST open for discussion and guidance by professionals, academicians, scholars and experts.

There are multi faceted issues involved regarding up-grading of software, cash registers, filing tax returns and so on. GST reform would certainly revolutionaries economy and would make great impact on the society as a whole.
